

RESPONDING IN THE EVENT OF A YOUNG PERSON SUSPECTED SUICIDE*

2023-2024

Effective date: June 2021

Last reviewed: June 2023

Updated by: Miss K Hayward

Policy to be reviewed: June 2024

Introduction

Suicide is a leading cause of death for young people in the UK. Sadly, it is always a possibility that a student, parent or member of staff might take their own life. In young people especially, exposure to suicide may lead to increased risk of their own suicidal thoughts.

However, schools and colleges play an important role in reducing the likelihood of copycat behaviour and helping recovery by preparing and responding to the situation appropriately. National guidance recommends that schools and colleges should aim to respond to a suspected suicide within 48 hours¹. This is necessary to maintain the structure and order of the school/college routine, while facilitating the expression of grief.

This policy has been written in accordance with national guidance, best practice and professional advice².

Definitions

At risk: A student who is defined as high risk for suicide is one who has made a suicide attempt, has the intent to die by suicide, or has displayed a significant change in behaviour suggesting the onset or deterioration of a mental health condition. The student may have thought about suicide including potential means of death and may have a plan. In addition, the student may exhibit feelings of isolation, hopelessness, helplessness, and the inability to tolerate any more pain.

Suicide: Death caused by self-directed injurious behaviour with any intent to die as a result of the behaviour. Note: The coroner's or medical examiner's office must first confirm that the death was a suicide before any school official may state this as the cause of death

Aim

This policy aims to ensure that our school/college is prepared and can react within 48 hours with a planned response that helps rebuild the wellbeing of our community and reduces the risk of further suicides.

Statement of Purpose:

- We are aware that suicide is the leading cause of death in young people;
- We play a vital role in helping to prevent young suicide;
- We want to make sure that children and young people at our school are as suicide-safe as possible and that our governors, parents and carers, teaching staff, support staff, pupils and other key stakeholders share our commitment to this policy.

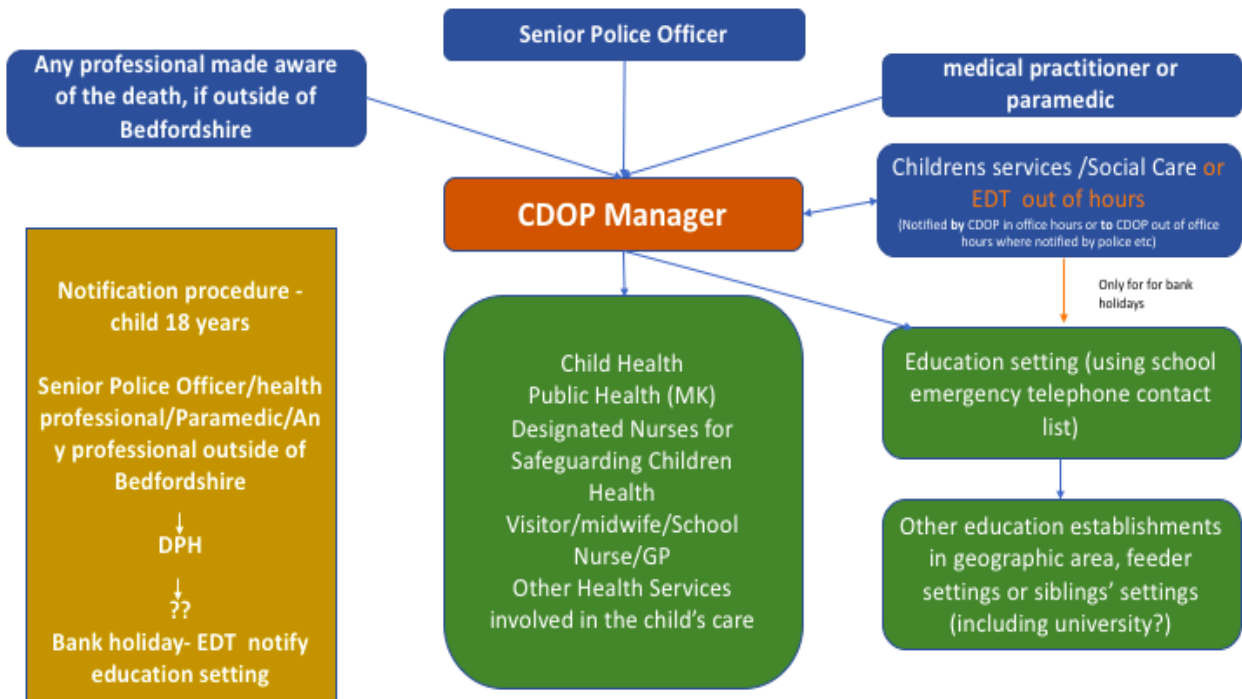

* Pupils and students aged 17 years and under

- Recognise that it is natural for pupils/students and staff to discuss the event but we will encourage all students/ pupils and staff to be mindful that any communication on social media must be respectful as it is in the public domain and that any messages they read may not be factual.
- Recognise that student/pupil distress might manifest in their behaviour and/or performance.
- Continue the conversation about suicide in a reassuring and safe way to reduce stigma and encourage openness. We will use helpful language when talking about suicide, following the guidance at Appendix E.
- Liaise with our support agencies including CAMHS, CHUMS and our School Nursing Service to develop a plan to support colleagues and students/pupils.
- Debrief colleagues and 'check in' with students/pupils and encourage an ethos of care and support throughout the school/college.
- Ensure that staff are familiar with this policy and receive relevant training on
- what to do if there is a concern about a colleague or student/pupil.
- Ensure that staff know what risk factors and signs to look out for in colleagues and students/pupils including self-harm.
- Remember our student/pupil who has died.
- Consult with the family about disseminating the funeral arrangements.
- Consult with the family about an assembly memorial or short-term memorial site but will avoid romanticising suicide with a prolonged memorial site.
- Be aware that longer term issues may arise, particularly for those at risk and at the anniversary of the young person's death, and we will facilitate appropriate discussion and support.

Suggested school letter to parent/guardians informing them of the apparent death by suicide of a pupil/student (with family consent):

Dear Parent/Guardian

(Name of school) was sad to learn of the death of one of our students. The young person died (suddenly/by suspected suicide) (when). The school were notified by (police, family) (when).

All children at the school were informed by (class teachers/ other) (when). We would encourage you to let your children know that you have received this letter and that you are aware of the death.

Of course, the death of a young person evokes a considerable number of questions, worries and fears in everyone and we understand that the young person's death will come as a big shock to children, staff and parents and we want to reassure you that we are on hand to provide support and are following guidelines.

A dedicated group of our staff will be liaising with the family as well as external specialist support.

All staff will respond to children's questions and concerns and there will be a dedicated team coordinating emotional and practical support for the children. We would like you to direct any specific questions too (named staff member), either by phone or using their school emails found on our school web site.

All children have been made aware that student support is available at any time during the school day, we have been arranged for additional support as follows: (School Nurse Drop-in days, School Counsellor days, CAMHS contact days, CHUMS contact days)

We will continue to provide routine and continuity for all students throughout the coming weeks.

If parents and children wish to bring in flowers or tributes, please take them to Main Reception. We have also placed a book on the table in which students can write a memory or a message for (the young person and their family).

Professionals have given us the following advice and guidance when talking to your children and we hope this will be helpful.

- Children can react very differently to news of a death, some may appear to carry on almost without reacting, while others may cry and be completely overcome by their feelings. It is good to remember that there is no right or wrong way to grieve and no rule book to follow.
- Be honest when talking about the death and use sensitive but honest language such as "died by suicide" and "took their own life".
- Try not to overwhelm your child with information or give more information than asked for. Children may, when receiving news of a death, ask a few questions at a time in order to process the information. Like adults, children may need to hear the story more than once and ask the same questions again.
- It is ok to say that you do not know why the young person took his/her life, rather than to speculate on things that may have been said, especially on social media.
- Reassure your children that you are available to listen and talk about the death.
- If your child is concerned and upset by how they are feeling it can help to know that other people often feel shocked, numb, angry, sad and overwhelmed by the death.
- Encourage your child to ask for support in school if needed.
- If you are concerned about the emotional and mental health of a child or adult, contact a professional. If not school, contact your GP or take them to an A&E department.

- If they or you are worried about them harming themselves, ask them direct questions, such as “sometimes when people feel like you do, they think about suicide and harming themselves, is that what you are thinking about”?
- We have urged children to be especially sensitive when using social media and instant messaging and to respect the family’s privacy at this very sad time.

Suggested media response:

- A young person’s suicide may attract attention from the media – this could be from either local or national news organisations.
- Social media platforms mean that news of such incidents can travel quickly, and you may find yourself being contacted by a journalist seeking a comment within a short period of time.
- Whether you are contacted by email, telephone or face-to-face, it is important that you do not feel under any obligation to make any statement without having a chance to properly consider your position.
- Two key issues need to be thought about before issuing any communications:
 - a. Whether information about the death is in the public domain and whether the family would be content for you to make any statement that will essentially confirm the death
 - b. Whether the death could be subject to any police investigation, in which you may be restricted in making any comment.
- Assuming that these key issues have been considered, it would be prudent to prepare a statement and to run this past the family as soon as possible.
- If you have not had an opportunity to do so when approached for a comment, it is entirely appropriate for you to say that you are not yet able to share a statement but will do as soon as possible, committing to get back to them directly.
- In drafting a statement, you may wish to consider:
 - ✓ Acknowledging the tragic loss of the young person’s life and explaining that the thoughts of the teaching staff and governing body are with their family at this very difficult time

⁵ Samaritans Media Guidance: <https://www.samaritans.org/media-centre/media-guidelines-reporting-suicide>

- ✓ Reflecting on the unique qualities of the young person, perhaps referencing any particular characteristics or contributions they have made to school life
- ✓ Explaining the support that you will be giving to the pupils of the school (particularly relevant for direct communications with parents/carers)
- ✓ Avoid details of the method used or the location
- ✓ Avoid speculation about the 'trigger' for the suicide
- ✓ Avoid making the deceased appear heroic or brave or that suicide was a solution to a problem
- ✓ Avoid endorsement of myths around suicide
- ✓ Bear in mind the language used
- ✓ Do not over emphasise the school/college community's expressions of grief
- ✓ Be sensitive to the feelings of family and friends
- ✓ Encourage sharing helplines and support organisation details
- ✓ Bear in mind that interest is sometimes generated by campaigning groups/bereaved families, with the aim of raising awareness of the issues.
